Bougainville goes to polls

Mr George Manu

Polling for the Autonomous Bougainville Government's general elections kicked off on May 11 and ended on May 25.

Counting started on May 26. The winners would be declared on June 8. The inauguration of the new elected members of the Autonomous Government would be on June 15.

Acting Electoral Commissioner, George Manu, said that polling throughout the region was conducted peacefully despite complaints from voters that their names were missing from the Electoral Roll. Mr Manu also that polling was carried out in all regions and special voting centres in Bougainville and Papua New Guinea (PNG).

Mr Manu made the remarks during his daily briefings with the media on the progress of the polling. He said that steps were taken, in line with the law, to redress the issue of missing names on the final electoral roll. However this is the advice he gave to those who did not find their names on the Common Roll:

- People who do not find themselves on the Final Electoral Roll at a polling place should go to the Bougainvilleans in Bougainville (BiB) Special Polling Places (Buka, Arawa and Buin) to check whether their names was found on the earlier version of the Final Electoral Roll

- If they are found on the earlier version of the Roll, meaning that they were inadvertently left off the Final Electoral Roll, then they will be allowed to vote at the BiB Special Polling Place

- Otherwise, according to the laws currently in place, people who are not found on the Final Electoral Roll are not entitled to vote.

"If you have moved, you may find that on the earlier version of the roll your enrolment might be for the place in which you previously lived," Mr Manu said.

"I understand that people may be frustrated and I ask all Bougainvilleans to respect and follow the advice of the polling officials," he said.

The last day for voting for Bougainvilleans living outside of Bougainville (BOB) was on May 15.

Mr Manu said he was proud that the Bougainville Electoral Commission and the PNG Electoral Commission had worked closely together to ensure that Bougainvilleans outside of Bougainville could also exercise their rights to vote.

In another incident, the acting Electoral Commissioner condemned in the strongest terms the action of a disgruntled candidate who shut down a polling station temporarily.

"I will not hesitate to use the powers vested in me by the ABG to take legal action against people who behave in such a selfish and irresponsible manner," Mr Manu said.

He said anyone with complaints should use the formal Electoral Dispute Resolution Process to register their complaints.

Meanwhile, a group of international observers had been sent out to different polling sites to observe the elections and to ensure it is free, fair and the best results are achieved.

The United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) has been working closely with the Bougainville Electoral Commission to help ensure smooth preparations for the elections.

UNDP representative Roy Trivedy said it was important that this election was conducted smoothly given the commitment under the Bougainville Peace Agreement to have a Referendum within five years.

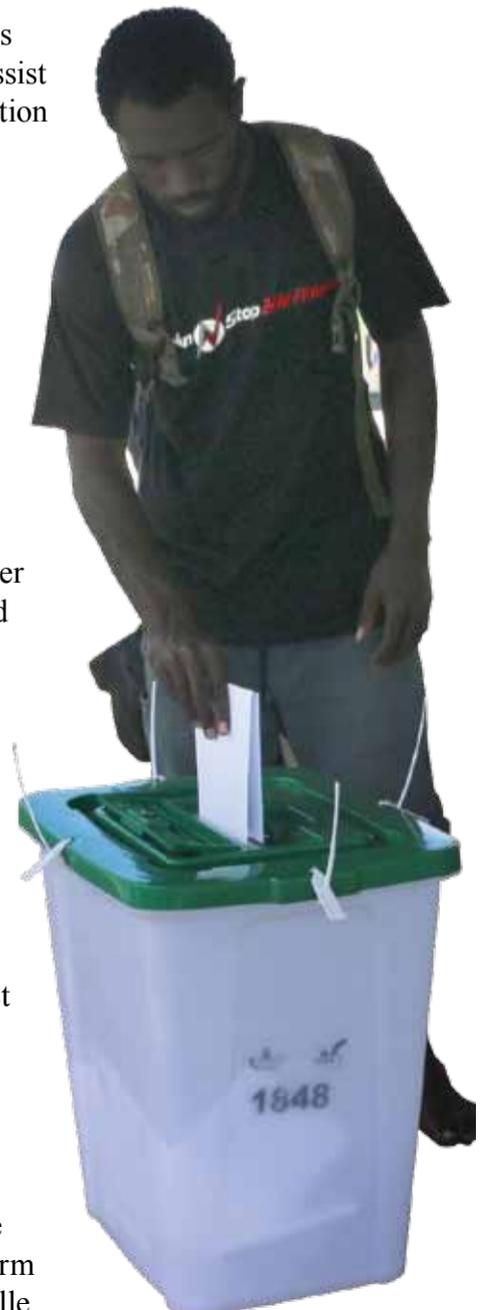

Mr Trivedy said his organization would assist by providing coordination of the observer effort, support to establish electoral dispute resolutions, training for candidates, party agents and media support for post-election review.

In reiterating the importance of this year's elections, Electoral Commissioner Mr Manu said it would be this government which would decide on the future of Bougainville.

"I've been asking people to vote good leaders as these are the key people who will negotiate with PNG for the exact date for referendum and the wording of the question."

This government will hold a promised referendum some time during the five-year term on whether Bougainville stays in PNG or goes independent. And the leaders elected will play an important role in addressing key issues like weapons disposal, good governance and economic and fiscal self-reliance which must be achieved before referendum is achieved," Mr Manu said.

Hello

that our media team is playing a vital role in conducting awareness to the people. The Radio Ples Lain Team has been actively engaged in community awareness while we still maintain a presence on social media on Facebook page: Radio Ples Lain 98.6 and the Autonomous Bougainville Government page. Apart from the elections, the Bulletin continues to carry its regular features such as the Bougainville Peace Agreement, Autonomy, Referendum and Weapons Disposal Plan to meet the information needs of the community.

The premise of the day is to raise awareness on the progress that the ABG is making in line with the Bougainville Peace Agreement as it progresses towards achieving referendum in the near future. We endeavour to engage the community in networking to encourage information flow between the Autonomous Bougainville Government and its people. In this edition, we tried to include more stories in Tok Pisin in an effort to make information more accessible to people. This shift is a direct result of you, readers request for more information in Tok Pisin. We hope you find this edition informative as well as interesting. As usual, we welcome ideas or comments on how we can improve this newspaper. Finally, a big thank you to our contributors. Til then, Happy Reading and welcome to the fifth edition of Bougainville's very own tabloid newspaper; the Bougainville Bulletin. To date, we have now published four editions so far and successfully distributed more than 80 000 copies throughout the Autonomous Region of Bougainville (AROB) and PNG. It is our dedicated staff who cross rugged terrains, brave open seas and travel long distances just to make sure the news and information reach you, our valued readers. In another breakthrough the distribution of the Bougainville Bulletin has extended into the neighbouring Solomon Islands and continues to make inroads into remote areas. The Bulletin continues to develop and improve in reflecting the key issues affecting the Autonomous Region of Bougainville. To reflect this growth this current edition has been increased to 20-pages from the previous 16 pages. We hope to increase the production from 20,000 to 50,000 copies soon. The Bulletin has also set up a blogger account which readers can access via bougainvillebulletin.blogspot.com The focus right now is on the current ABG elections as we wait to see who will form the third House of Parliament. The year 2015 has been deemed 'Window of Referendum' so it is the third House which will play a crucial role to lead Bougainville into determining its future. The elections are very important

Lera commits K1m to school fees

Bougainville Regional Member has committed K1 million from his PSIP funds to assist Bougainville students studying in 78 different universities, colleges and institutions through out Papua New Guinea and an additional 29 to universities abroad this year. "Education is very vital and an integral part in the development of Bougainville and thus, students are the most important group the need to be assisted," Mr Lera said. "Over the years, parents have paid huge costs and to some degree put their children in risky situation in pursuit of better education of higher institutions. "I am now focused on establishing tertiary institutions and colleges so that parents don't have to pay excessive costs to educate their children and most importantly. "We will build a population of well educated elites having its own human resource to develop this region, he said. More than 1000 applications have reached the MP's office and an acceptance list has been finalized for payments to be processed.

A satellite dish at Atamo Primary School.

EQUITV reaches ARoB Schools

Bougainville Regional MP, Joe Lera distributed Satellite dishes and broadcast equipment to 88 remote primary schools in Bougainville.

The regional MP committed K400 000 for the School TV project that would improve learning using TV programs.

The school TV Project comes under the Regional Member's second development pillar on people empowerment and the third pillar on education. "These pillars will be achieved when people have access to information through Television. People will have the opportunity to watch news and know about what's happening in Papua New Guinea and the rest of the world," Mr Lera said.

He said with the implementation of the Free Tuition Fee Polisi, enrollments for primary schools were expected to increase in the coming years and he has proposed funding to expand the EQUITV program to all primary schools in Bougainville. "At the moment we are face with limited telecommunication and radio reach. With the installation of satellite dishes, schools and communities can now have access to information from remote villages," Mr Lera said. He noted the availability of information meant a well informed society that will make well informed decisions. Recent studies revealed that students in schools the have access to EQUITV programs perform better in the National Examinations than those that do not access the program. This research has prompted the regional member to commit this project and funds were drawn from his Provincial Service Improvement Program (PSIP). The EQUITV program was introduced in 2005 by the Japanese Government under JICA Grassroots aid and was targeted for Bougainville and East Sepik Provinces. The project was also extended to New Ireland, Milne Bay and Western Highlands Provinces. It is regularly broadcasted on EMTV.

Belkol plans in pipeline

The proposed Bel kol ceremony in Arawa by parties involved in the Bougainville conflict is yet to happen at a date to be set, according to the Belkol organizing committee.

This historical event for the parties which include the Bougainville Copper Limited (BCL), PNG Government and the Bougainvilleans is expected to attract more than 4000 people.

The ceremony in local Kieta Nasioi tradition is a concept to pave way to forge peace between former enemies.

The Bel Kol ceremony would signify that BCL and the Bougainvilleans are willing to reconcile and forge a new relationship based on trust. The Bel Kol is the first step before any discussions on negotiations on compensation by the company.

In the Nasioi custom, there are five steps in the process.

1. Oko Takera : Putting the cause of conflict out in the open
2. Kare Kara: Chewing of betel nut

(Buai) to symbolize the end of conflict

3. Ereng Si: Cleansing of the blood for both sides.

4. Osi Koing: arrival of enemy upon invitation

5. Narenang: Sorting out compensation This event would not be a forum for BCL and the PNG Government to pay compensation for reopening the mine but to set foundation for more discussions on the future of the mines.

The Bel Kol is expected to pave the way for an invitation from the landowners for the mining company to open an office in Arawa in the future.

Ex-combatants support Mining Bill

By Anthony Kaybing

Ex-combatants in Bougainville had rallied behind the Autonomous Bougainville Government to support the passing of the controversial permanent Bougainville Mining Act. The ex-combatants met with the ABG and its officials in March to express their support of the Bill and assured President Grand Chief Dr John Momis of their intent. The permanent Bougainville Mining Bill is the brainchild of the Momis led-government in its efforts to curb mineral resource problems that led to the bloody 10-year civil conflict on the island.

The Bill if passed will give landowners a pronounced say on how mineral extraction is carried out on their lands and also controls the type of potential developers interested in mining on Bougainville. The Bougainville Mining Department as well as the Bougainville Justice Department have been carrying out widespread awareness on the issue throughout Bougainville to explain the intricacies of the Bill to Bougainville communities. Despite being hailed as a successful attempt by the government to protect Bougainville's interests there have been certain elements who continue to argue that the bill is a sham and designed to sell Bougainville. Foremost amongst its critics was former Bougainville Revolutionary Army strongman Sam Kauona who claimed that the Bill lacked certain details that safe-guard Bougainville from being exploited again. But a different sentiment was echoed by Mr Kauona's former comrades who claimed ownership of the government and in this light respected the ABG's intent on passing the Bill. Spokesman for the ex-combatants, Cornelius Solomon said the government has done everything to thoroughly explain to the people the new Bill and how it will greatly regulate the extractive industry on Bougainville. "We cannot continue to undermine the government for it is the very thing that we fought and died for, doing so only renders the purpose of our struggle moot," Mr Solomon said. Mr Solomon said that the ex-combatants were all behind the government and would not resort to creating instability within the region. President Momis and his government also expressed their gratitude to the ex-combatants for taking the initiative to recognize the ABG's efforts to act in the best interest of the people of Bougainville. Editor's Note: The Mining Bill was finally passed before the Bougainville House of Representatives rose towards the end of March to go into recess for the ABG elections.

Editor's Note: The ABG passed the Mining Law on 26th March this year before the last sitting of the Parliament.

A Woman's Worth - The beginning of the March for Peace

By Ben Korok TALAKAM

They say that if you watch closely when a woman cries, if you stare long enough... just enough to see her tears form, the world comes to a stand still. They say that if you looked beyond and through those warm wary eyes, you'd see the world in one moment.

Now as I sit and stare into these women's eyes, a thousand tales yet to unfold, one story wanting to be told.

This is a story of eleven courageous women and their struggle for lasting peace on beautiful Bougainville.

During the early 1990's, the Papua New Guinea Defence Force with the help of the Resistance Forces executed the Force Landing Operation in Buka, an approach strategized to catch the Bougainville Revolutionary Army (BRA) off guard.

Tension high, confusion a constant cloud and fear a living nightmare for the women and children of Buka who had to see first hand what an invasion was like.

According to these 11 brave women led by a resilient Pauline Ben from the Ieta village, the reason behind them joining their male counterparts in what would be the first ever March for Peace, was seeing the sheer potential of a brutal blood bath.

"Our brothers and sons were in the BRA so it was scary seeing the PNGDF landing in Buka with their full force!"

The actual March commenced in Haku, the northern tip of Buka Island following down the east coast highway towards the Buka Airstrip, where the PNGDF were already setting up base.

The long enduring March began with mostly men and Buka chiefs. As the March convened at Kubu for the grand finale near the PNGDF base, the 11 obsidians, radiant with hope and exuding confidence fell into file with the March.

"We believed that our involvement in the Peace March might actually help project the need for peace. Not only in Buka but also throughout the rest of Bougainville. We knew this was our opportunity to speak out for what every woman in Bougainville had been crying for."

I for one believe these elegant obsidians of Peace may have had an impact on those that listened to them speak out during the speeches they gave on that day. You ask me why and how and I can only tell you with all honesty that just listening to Pauline painfully reliving those days in her head so vividly just so that I can write this piece was enough for me.

As Pauline continued to tell me of what she said during the March for Peace she in her modesty tried to hold back the tears that were already half way down. Seeing such a humble yet strong woman break down makes you realise the determination and endurance a few women pull off just to see families, let alone communities survive harsh times.

"There was nothing more or less we wanted more than peace," iterated a tearful Mrs Ben, trying very hard not to choke on her now shaky voice. Since my interview with Pauline I have gone a step further to research early peace advocacy at such momentum and came up blank.

However, speaking to couple of people from that era, they have supported the women's story adding that to their most vivid memories these were the women who came out to plead for peace on the island. To my surprise others confirmed that among the 11 were two toddlers, one three-year old and the other was about five years old. I came back to ask Pauline about this.

"Yes we had two kids. Sisters, their father was imprisoned somewhere in Panguna. They came along the March to signify their pleas for their father's release."

I have been told that the girls are older now and enjoying the peace that they, at a very young age, took to advocate.

By now, like me, most of you would be as surprised as I was every time these women kept telling their experience something more astonishing pops up.

Well surprisingly, these women turned up at my office to see if I can get their message to the Autonomous Bougainville Government. Ironically, I work for the same government.

They have been trying to get their voices heard since President Chief John Momis was first inaugurated. According to Pauline, President Momis caught up with one of their Chiefs and asked about the 11 women a couple years back.

They responded in letter to the ABG and its administration, specifically to the office of Peace and Reconciliation. Sometime ago they were compensated about K2, 000 for their part in the historic MARCH for PEACE.

Makes you wonder how much money being dished out to unrealistic peace building activities.

"The ABG must clearly define the earlier activities undertaken to bring peace and the people who were actively involved so that they be compensated accordingly! It was dangerous times."

These 11 obsidian of peace today continue to wait upon the ABG and what recognition it might have for them.

CT Scanner for Buka General Hospital

The Buka General Hospital (BGH) is the second government facility in the country to have a Computerized Tomography (CT) scanner. The Regional MP, Joe Lera in his efforts to modernize health equipment and improve medical services in the region, bought this state of the art scanner and 2 mobile x-ray machines at the cost of K1.7 million.

Mr. Lera said that his provincial service improvement program (PSIP) funds were focused on assisting the ABG with improvement, expansion and modernization of medical equipments in the region.

"Health is a priority for the national government and I as the regional member for Bougainville, have made it my development pillar and therefore decided that I would purchase the CT scanner so people have access to better health facilities in the region," he said. The CT scanner produces three-dimensional (3D) images, which are then sent to imaging monitors where doctors can identify where the problem with the patient is.

According to the radiologist, Lindsay Hunt, the machine uses a motorized x-ray source that rotates around the patient shooting narrow beams of light through the body while the patients lies face up or down on the that moves through the gantry. As the x-rays pass through the body, digital detectors that transmit images to the monitor pick them up and results can be derived from these images.

Buka General Hospital is a level 4 hospital that had received the third CT scanning machine. Two radiologists, Jean Gimots and Edwin Tsikoa had been trained to operate the machine, two radiologists. They are now carrying out scanning operations for patients.

An expert from Melbourne conducted the training and further trainings are planned to take place in Melbourne in due course.

This is the second ABG owned vessel purchased to service Bougainville waters and parts of Papua New Guinea.

The government bought its first vessel MV Chebu last year and is serving the NGI waters to Lae and back.

The vessels were bought under the Coastal and Sea

BEC on missing persons

In light of the Bougainville Executive Council Decision 62 of 2014 on missing persons, a small but important meeting was held in Buka in March this year, to begin talks on how to address the issue of missing persons during the Bougainville Crisis.

Acting director of Peace and Reconciliation Directorate, Mr Laurie Patrick, chaired the meeting.

Representatives of the international committee of the Red Cross and Red Crescent (ICRC) and the Papua New Guinea Defence Force (PNGDF) attended the meeting.

The meeting recommended that a working group and secretariat comprising of representatives from the ABG, PNG Disciplined Forces, Bougainville Ex-Combatants, families of missing persons and IRC on an advisory role, be established to advise larger consultative committee consisting of stakeholders from across Bougainville. Given the current focus on ABG elections, the meeting agreed that the main consultative effort would commence after the formation of the new government.

The meeting recognized the importance of reconciliation between the PNG Disciplined Forces, the Bougainville Ex-Combatants and other parties who fought during the crisis, to laying the platform for identifying the missing persons.

At the end of the meeting, it was agreed that the effort was purely humanitarian.

The meeting further agreed that the process must be inclusive of all stakeholders, and must be focused on alleviating the suffering of families who have missing persons from the crisis.

New vessel to serve the outer islands

The Atolls and the outer lying islands now have access to better transport service.

This is possible now that the Autonomous

Bougainville Government has bought its second vessel, MV RAPOIS CHIEF. The passenger vessel arrived on 16 May on her maiden voyage from Rabaul to Buka.

Government representatives and the public were on hand to welcome the vessel.

Chief Secretary, Monovi Amani, thanked the leaders of Bougainville for their foresight and wisdom in getting the boat that will connect the people of Atolls to Bougainville once again.

"Coastal people of Bougainville, especially those in the West Coast and the Atolls will now have a safer means of travel and to move their goods, especially cash crops," Mr Amani said.

Transport Improvement Programme funded by the Special Implementation Fund (SIF).

The SIF is a joint funding arrangement between the PNG and ABG governments.

Bougainville proposes 2019 for Referendum

The Autonomous Bougainville Government (ABG) has proposed to the National Government to hold the referendum at a date agreed by both Governments in the first quarter of 2019.

At the Joint Supervisory Body (JSB) meeting held in Arawa in March, President John Momis said the ABG proposed this timing taking into account the commitments by both Government over the next five years.

Commitments the President had referred to, included the ABG elections this year, the Pacific Games in 2016, National Elections in 2017 and Asia Pacific Economic Co-operation (APEC) meeting in 2018 and as per the Bougainville Peace Agreement, the window for Referendum would end in 2020 which left 2019 as the best available period to conduct the Referendum.

“The year 2015 is a crucial year in the peace process with the opening of the referendum window in June. We are concerned that with only five years remaining for the referendum to be held, not much progress has been made,” he said.

“There is the important task of preparing the people of Bougainville through a comprehensive awareness program in order for them to be ready to make the most important decision of their life, the President added.”

He pointed out that important decisions need to be made by the two Governments through the respective Bi-Partisan Committee to agree on several milestones that need to happen.

“The Referendum Committee comprising officials of both Governments need to meet regularly and move fast to progress and reach agreement on important issues such as the eligibility for voting, the relevant questions to be asked including the question on whether Bougainville should be independent or not and the appropriate agency for conducting the referendum. This must happen very quickly,” President Momis urged.

Chief Executive of the Office of Bougainville Referendum, Chris Siriosi, had said that he was working closely with the Deputy Chief Secretary to the Office of the Prime Minister (PM) and the National Executive Council (NEC), Mr Trevor Meaurio, in developing a “robust framework for consultations” between the ABG and the National Government to dispense with a wide array of issues.

These issues included eligibility for voting, weapons disposal, good governance and the rule of law, the independent agency that will conduct the referendum, approval of the rules for conducting the voting and questionnaires as required by the Bougainville Peace Agreement.

Mr Siriosi said the need for a robust consultative framework was important as the two governments, especially the ABG would need to continue to consult Bougainvilleans every step of the way.

Preparations underway

The Autonomous Region of Bougainville is expected to conduct a referendum on the future political status of Bougainville between 2015 and 2020 as set out in the Bougainville Peace Agreement (BPA).

In preparation for implementing this final pillar of the road map for peace, the Joint Supervisory Body (JSB) meeting in March had endorsed the work streams that would be undertaken in the next few months by both the Autonomous Bougainville Government (ABG) and the National Government. The work streams endorsed include;

1. Developing a framework of procedures for active participation and consultation with all stakeholders in Bougainville, Papua New Guinea and the two governments,
2. Weapons disposal assessment,
3. Develop for the two governments criteria allowing non-resident Bougainvilleans to vote
4. Good governance assessment
5. Establishing a process for determining the question(s) to be put to the people,

6. Establishing the independent Administrative Agency and Financing the Referendum and

7. Review of the provisions for the conduct of the referendum. At the recent JSB meeting in Arawa, Central Bougainville, President of the Autonomous Region of Bougainville John Momis urged the Referendum Committee comprising officials of both Governments to meet regularly and move fast to progress referendum preparations.

He said this would allow for important decisions on the date for the referendum, the charter for the conduct of referendum and other necessary milestones regarding the preparations for the conduct of the referendum to be made by the two governments through the respective Bi-Partisan Committee.

Bougainvilleans providing armed security for illegal mining in Solomon Islands

The Kangu beach - border between Bougainville and Solomon Islands.

The controversy on weapons disposal has been questioned again with recent revelations that Bougainvilleans are providing armed security for Asian owned illegal mines in the Solomon Islands.

From information provided by reliable sources, they alleged that large numbers of weapons had been taken across the border for illegal purposes mostly by South Bougainvilleans. The source added that these men are promised large amounts of money and material goods in return for their services.

However, this activity already questions the integrity of the weapons disposal plan and if there was a program in place to recoup remaining weapons.

“A combined effort by police and veterans is needed to stop this illegal practice, the source said.

“My wife tried to tell one of the Bougainvillean guards that what he was doing was wrong and in turn he pointed the gun at her and threatened to shoot her.

“If this activity continues our National Security will be questioned.”

“The issue of guns is turning into a law and order issue for our government and the Solomon Island government. This goes back to Ex-combatants and those that are still in possession of weapons that this issue must be addressed with urgency so that the threat of guns can be done away with, he said.

The source has urged urge the Ex-combatants to work with the new government to resolve the matter of weapons so that we can have a gun free and peaceful Bougainville.”

Preserving our history

The ABG Archives Office is located in the Bureau of Media and Communications office next to Buka airport. We are responsible for the collection, management and preservation of ABG archives and aim to eventually provide access to these archives to the public. This regular column will provide information to the people of Bougainville about what archives are and why they are important. This column aims to keep readers informed of the work of the Archives Office.

Archives are records which are no longer required for use in current business and have been selected for permanent preservation because of their legal, evidential and historical value. Bougainvilleans have been archiving information for generations, for example, by passing principles of land ownership and tumbuna stories on to younger people so it will be preserved. The role of the Archives Office is just the same, but the history it is preserving is government history. This contributes to the First Pillar of the Bougainville Peace Agreement requiring good governance in Bougainville. Good governance is aided by archiving government decisions, processes, and actions, and making such documentation accessible to the public through record-keeping. This ensures that future decisions can be made in an informed, efficient and democratic way.

During the Bougainville Crisis, many of North Solomon Province’s Administrative records were lost. Others were shipped to Rabaul, East New Britain Province, where the Administration was temporarily located. Many of these records were lost when Mount Tavurvur erupted in 1994. When the Bougainville administration moved to Buka, some records were shipped to storage in Buka where they have remained and been added to since. The records in storage were dumped in disordered piles. Many records survived remarkably well, while others slowly decomposed due to water damage, creatures and the effects of age. Some important records were destroyed to make more space. In 2012 and 2013, the ABG developed a Records Managements and Archives framework and the deteriorating records began to be sorted and preserved. In 2014, the Division of Media and Communications hired a full-time Archives Officer to continue the recording and sorting of archival material. Now, the ABG Archives mainly contains records from 1990 – 2005. There are many records from throughout the Bougainville Peace Process which are of significant cultural and historical value to Bougainville, as well as vital government documents and more temporary files. The ABG Archives Office currently houses around 4000 files, with many more in storage waiting to be processed and digitised. Our dream is that one day, Bougainville will have an official Archives Office which preserves the governmental and cultural history and development of Bougainville, and shares that history with the public.

Int’l observers arrived in town

In response to an invitation by the Papua New Guinea and Autonomous Bougainville Governments, an international observer group arrived in Bougainville in May to observe 2015 elections. The international team joined domestic observers to observe the electoral process across North, Central and South Bougainville.

The international observer group includes representatives from Australia, the Commonwealth Secretariat, the European Union, New Zealand, the United Kingdom and the United States of America. The group is assisted by the UNDP is assisting the group to observe the elections from the start of polling on 11 May to the return of writs.

The observer nations, bodies and forums aim to support a fair, transparent and credible electoral process that reflects the will of the people of Bougainville.

Road work starts

The people of the Wakunai District, Central Bougainville, will have a feeder road constructed towards the end of this year. The Togarau feeder road that runs from Wakunai junction to Togarau village is one of the road programs funded by the Special Intervention Fund (SIF). The SIF is a joint funding arrangement between the Papua New Guinea Government (GoPNG) and the Autonomous Bougainville Government (ABG). Local contractor, Rustproof, had won the contract and is currently constructing the economic feeder road.

Bougainville Referendum to right the wrongs

A WRITER'S PERSPECTIVE by Leonard Fong Roka

In the South Pacific context the imminent Bougainville Referendum for a lasting political settlement for the nearly 40 years struggle and loss of lives for the Bougainville people is a significant milestone for the democratic political processes and strategies in the region.

Bougainvilleans are geographically and culturally Solomon Islanders having dwelled for nearly 30 thousand years on the largest and the resource rich island of the Solomon archipelago.

Unfortunately, The Anglo-German Declaration of 1886 and the Anglo-German Convention of 1899 dragged Bougainvilleans into the colonial German New Guinea administration. This was and is the source of the social, political and economic problems Bougainvilleans had faced over the years; and eventually culminating into a Bougainville Crisis since 1988.

With the armed struggle sprouting off from the dissatisfaction over Panguna mine exploits since 1988 and pouring over long years of political struggles Bougainville submerged into a civil conflict claiming the lives of some 10 to 15 thousand local people.

Peace was not that easy to achieve but after continuous attempts the Bougainville Peace Agreement (BPA) was reached in 2001 between the Bougainville groups and Papua New Guinea. Bougainville's peace gave the Bougainville people one significant offer and that is the referendum scheduled to be held between 2015 and 2020.

But the BPA and the PNG's Organic Law of Peace Building in Bougainville prescribed two conditions are met for the referendum and they are: weapons disposal and international standards of good governance.

When PNG is infested with illegal weapons and crime and worst corruption index, under international standards, Bougainvilleans should not fear their say in the referendum. But their important decision is to put Bougainville on the right political track that should bring betterment for all.

Bougainvilleans are not reckless weapon users but their presence is disharmony to many; there is corruption on Bougainville, but it can be managed in a tiny island as Bougainville when people mandate right leaders to power and endow them with more anti-corruption powers and functions are given to them.

Understanding the Bougainville problem from the roots is the key for the best outcome for the Bougainville referendum. The coming referendum is to RIGHT the WRONGS done to the Bougainville society by colonization and the state of PNG.

The wrongs we should now know are well said by former leaders: Fr. John Momis said to BCL in 1987 that "The BCL mine has forever changed the perceptions, the hopes and fears of the people of Bougainville. You are invaders. You have invaded the soil and the places of our ancestors, but above all, your mine has invaded our minds" and Martin Miriori said in 1996 referring to the Panguna mine and PNG that "Bougainville and its people were a free independence gift by Australia to Papua New Guinea".

Then the late Joseph Kabui separated Bougainville from PNG when he spelled it all out in 1991 by saying that "It is a feeling deep down in our hearts that Bougainville is totally different than PNG, geographically, culturally. It's been a separate place from time immemorial. Ever since God created the Universe, Bougainville has been separate, has been different".

Thus the upcoming Bougainville referendum is to save Bougainville and Bougainvilleans from the disaster an African writer/academic Francis M. Deng wrote in his 1997 essay, Ethnicity: An African Predicament, as "Deprive a people of their ethnicity, their culture, and you deprive them of their sense of direction and purpose".

This is a Bougainville problem and must be stopped through the referendum granted to the people of Bougainville by their unique BPA that allows no unilateral changes by way of been an arrangement with 'double entrenchment' and that is, PNG cannot influence the results of referendum without Bougainvillean input and vice versa.

For Bougainvilleans, there is now a need to really glean our purpose and reasons, to our political standings. Our little groupings are trying to clash with a wider world order and its multilateral BPA expectations followed by the Autonomous Bougainville Government (ABG).

Bougainvilleans need to leave their tiny shells and walk the wider world for the coming referendum was not created by a bilateral peace process (between PNG and Bougainville) but rather by a multilateral peace process (between Bougainville, PNG, and many other states and organizations).

effectively in their communities. To date, this has not been implemented.

However, COE's need more than just being the shadow government. It needs to be able to have the power to determine the government of the day. The COE needs to be empowered to hold the Government accountable for what it does. Moreover the COE must be given the powers to call a vote

Roles of the Council of Elders

The Momis government in its first term proposed the idea of empowering Council of Elders (COEs) to curb law and order problems and uphold the roles of the government as the second tier government.

With the Bougainville Police Service's lack of capacity this empowerment would allow COE's together with women and ex-combatant leaders to exercise their authorities

Know what your constitution says

Part 1. Bougainville

What the Bougainville constitution says about:

1. AUTONOMOUS REGION OF BOUGAINVILLE

(1) Bougainville is made up of,
(a) the areas of land within the boundaries specified in schedule 3 (the boundaries of Bougainville Province specified in the schedule to the National Organic Law on provincial Boundaries) to this constitution; and
(b) the areas of sea extending to three nautical miles from the low water mark of the areas of land referred to in paragraph (a).

(2) Bougainville shall be known,
(a) formally as the "Autonomous Region of Bougainville"; and
(b) otherwise, as "Bougainville".

(3) The Autonomous Bougainville Government will keep under review the question of the name of Bougainville and whether any change should be made to it.

(4) The Autonomous Bougainville Government may consult with the National Government in accordance with the Bougainville Peace Agreement concerning the extension of Bougainville's maritime boundaries.

7. BOUGAINVILLEAN

(1) A person,

(a) who is a member (whether by birth or by adoption according to by the clan lineage) of a Bougainvillean clan lineage (matrilineal or patrilineal) owning customary land in Bougainville; or
(b) who is married (whether by law or custom) to a person to whom paragraph (a) applies; or
(c) who is a child one of whose parents is a Bougainvillean by virtue of paragraph (a), is a Bougainvillean.

(2) A Bougainvillean law, made by an absolute majority vote, may make provision for the alleviation of special cases of injustice or hardship or disadvantage arising as a result of the application of subsection (1) (c).

(3) for the purposes of subsection (1)(a), a person who was not born in Bougainville, or who is not of Bougainvillean descent or who is a non citizen may be adopted as a member of a Bougainvillean clan according to custom.

(4) A Bougainvillean Law, made by an absolute majority vote, shall make provision for all or any matters relation to this section including,

(a) the nature of providing evidence of customary practices; and
(b) the nature of providing evidence of birth outside Papua New Guinea; and
(c) all matters relevant to the consequences of dissolution of a marriage involving a person to whom subsection (1) refers; and
(d) all other matters arising from the provisions of this section.

8. OWNERSHIP OF CUSTOMARY LAND AND ELECTIONS

(1) Bougainvillean (and no other person) in accordance with this constitution and Bougainville laws,

(a) in accordance with custom, may own customary land in Bougainville; and;
(b) who is a citizen, may be a candidate in any election to the House of Representatives and any other elected body established by or under this constitution; and
(c) who is a citizen, may vote in any election referred to in paragraph (b).

(2) A Bougainville law, made by an absolute majority vote, may make provision for a citizen who is not eligible under subsection (1)(b) to be a candidate for election or who is not eligible for under subsection (1) (c) to vote, but who has such residential or other qualifications as are set out in the law, to be candidate for election or to vote.

9. OBLIGATIONS OF A BOUGAINVILLEAN

A Bougainvillean has an obligation;

(a) To be loyal to Bougainville and to protect its well being; and
(b) To uphold all Christian and similar moral and spiritual principles; and
(c) To promote reconciliation and healing throughout Bougainville; and
(d) To respect, to act in the spirit of, to uphold and to defend this constitution; and
(e) To engage in gainful work for the good of himself, his family, and the common good; and
(f) To contribute to the wellbeing of the community where that Bougainvillean lives; and
(g) To promote responsible parenthood; and
(h) To live in harmony with others; and
(i) To promote democracy and the rule of law; and
(j) To protect and manage the land and to protect the environment and his culture; and;
(k) As a child, obey his or her parents.

of no confidence any day of the week based on non-performance and or corruption related matters.

"We must have the commitment to prepare ourselves to meet the conditions of the Bougainville Peace Agreement, one of which is the law and order," Momis continues to say in the corridors of power.

But this commitment will not come from the Kubu Parliament house.

It will only come if the COE's are empowered to implement the works of the government and the government concentrates on polisi decision-making.

The COE has been a strong advocate of "peace by peaceful means", police and as justice in the community for donkey years. It cannot be given a duplicate in powers. What it really needs is to be active implementers of polisi decisions and developments of the government.

The COE's were to be renamed Community Governments in an effort to revamp them and increase their effectiveness in the communities on Bougainville. It never was.

Buin district is changing and seeing development of new infrastructure . A positive sign by its leaders to encourage the peace building process.

Cargo Vessel MV Huris off-loading fuel at Kangu Wharf

The Chief of Elders (CoE) of the Konnou Constituency of Buin District are working closely with the Veterans Department to ensure that peace and reconciliation is strengthened in the area.

This is an option, which the CoEs are taking responsibility of to solve past grievances between former combatants. Many of whom had not made peace yet.

Konnou is the biggest constituency of Buin District and for the past decade has been shattered by fighting by warring factions. It is also an area affected by the tussle between different types of government in the likes of ABG and Mee'kamui.

However, since the establishment of the Bougainville Peace building strategy within all CoE's throughout the region, peace and reconciliation has paved the way for these political factions to embrace peace by contributing to basic infrastructural development in the area.

Currently, Australian Aid Agency (AusAid) is providing support by conducting a feasibility study for Konnou Agro Technical Vocational School to be established in the constituency. It is proposed that the first intake of students should begin next year.

Ausaid is also funding the construction of a new CoE building at Muguai junction,

Chairman of chairmans for all CoE chairmans in Buin Aloysius Masiu said that landowners had agreed to allocate a piece of land for the building of a CoE office. They are working on the necessary documents to finalise this agreement.

"It is the hope of the CoEs of Konnou that they have an office so that they can perform their roles better as they see that the district office has failed to deliver in so many ways," Masiu said.

Rice farming has been an ongoing activity and the Department of Primary Industry has stepped in with technical training and by providing rice mills for rice farmers. Rice is milled and sold cheaply at the market and to Buin Secondary School.

"Buin has a large potential to become the agricultural hub of Bougainville, Masiu said.

"We would like to set up an institution to train our youths to get the necessary skills to tap into agriculture, create employment and contribute to the economy of Bougainville."

Mr. Masiu said that they are supportive and want to see more government services reach Buin district. This has seen the formation of a Buin Town Council to oversee progress in Buin. This council is made up of CoE members, churches, youth and womens reps.

"We're also looking forward to the sealing of Buin town to Kangu road, he said.

"This has been proposed by the National Member for South Mr. Pirika Kama but to date has not eventuated. This time, the ABG is going to work on it under the high impact projects."

Buin district generally is currently progressing in development terms. Mr Masiu said their focus is in infrastructure projects.

"We're happy that Buin Hospital is now a level four hospital and we are hoping more work will be done in time to develop it, Masiu said .

"We also have work being done to upgrade the Health Centre at Lenoke. Buin Secondary and vocational schools have also seen new developments, with the construction of new buildings . There are also plans underway to set up a a research centre in Makis constituency. This has been placed as a priority project under the DSIP funding for Makis.

"All in all, we can now see the results from Peace and Reconciliation. When we work together we implement the Bougainville Peace Agreement by creating development pathways that unite our people for a better future.

"We encourage this to continue for the good of Buin and the people of Bougainville," Masiu said.

ABG Public Servants Code of Conduct

A police officer on guard during the ABG 2015 elections polling at Bel isi park.

As a government and as public servants we have the duty to make a real difference in the lives of all Bougainville citizens.

The people of Bougainville demand and deserve our best efforts in delivering consistent services to the best of our ability. As public servants, serving in different calibers we are all in the business of serving the best interests of the Bougainville people. We ensure community service delivery is effective.

The public has a right to expect the same high ethical behavior from each and every one of us; no matter what job we perform. Every individual public servant must therefore take personal responsibility to uphold this Code of Conduct and Ethical Behavior.

In this edition we continue from the previous edition.

1.3 Contribute to public discussion in an appropriate way

Commenting on government polisi is a matter for Ministers, not public employees. Except where prior authorization has been given in writing, we will not comment to the media or the public on government polisi. Where providing factual information to the public on government polisi is a part of our official duties and responsibilities, we will ensure information is appropriately authorized prior to release and that we properly represent government polisi and the administration in its intended spirit. Like any other citizen, we have the right to contribute to public discussions on community and social issues in our private capacity.

We will always
1. Take reasonable steps to ensure any comment we make will be understood as representing our personal views, not those of government,
2. Maintain the confidentiality of information we have access to due to our roles, that is not publicly available, and

3. Be aware that personal comments about a public issue may compromise our capacity to perform the duties of our role in an independent, unbiased manner.

As public service employees we are required, when fulfilling our public responsibilities, to ensure our personal conduct and behavior consistently meets realistic public expectations and the highest possible ethical standards.

Joint us in the next edition for more on the ABG Public service code of conduct and ethical behaviors.

Peace Agreement will be met

“The conditions of the Bougainville Peace Agreement (BPA) can and will be met by Bougainville within the next five years as a prelude to its referendum.

This was the statement given by former Autonomous Bougainville Government (ABG) president and incumbent”

Dr John Momis

Momis made the statement in reference to Bougainville’s referendum that must be held within the 5-year period from 2015-2020. The conditions of the BPA are good governance, fiscal self-reliance and weapons disposal. “While reassuring all Bougainvilleans Mr. Momis said, “We must not fear, we must have faith in each other and ultimately of course we must have faith in God to give us the wisdom and strength to prevail. “We have now reached a critical juncture on our journey to freedom where we stand at the threshold of a new

Time to review ABG progress

One of Bougainville’s veteran politicians and community leaders, Chief Joseph Watawi, said that it was time that the Autonomy Bougainville Government (ABG) stepped back and reviewed its progress and accomplishments.

He referred to the challenges the ABG faced in relation to the:

- Implementing the draw- down of powers and function form the National Parliament.
- Weapons Disposal.
- Unification of Bougainville’s political factions
- Preparations for the referendum including an awareness strategy
- Limited mass media and telecommunication reach.

“It’s time we tell the people the key performance indicators we have achieved so far,” Mr Watawi said. While weapons disposal and ongoing reconciliation for unification of political factions is one determinant for Referendum, ABG must also identify and strengthen economic activities that will help the government propel the economy towards being self-reliant within the given time frame.

“The ABG has made considerable progress in terms of Governance, Law, and Services. The question here is: How effective is our progress in relation to the required benchmarks to ascertain referendum?”

“I think that it is time we sit down and review what we have done, what we are doing and what we will do and do it better. In this way, we can be sure that weapons disposal, peace and reconciliation, economic self- reliance is fully implemented in preparation for referendum.”

“How much have we achieved for Governance, Bougainville Peace Agreement, Peace reconciliation and weapons disposal, economic recovery and fiscal self- reliance towards autonomy?”

“We must review the implementation of the draw- down of powers to ensure that they are effective by setting deadline for achieving the challenges before referendum would be a good start, he said.”

Mr Watawi said communication and awareness strategy must be boosted so that people are informed of important decisions, and progress of the government. Empower the COE as the second tier government to handle weapons disposal and reconciliation at the community level.

“Let us remove guns and make Bougainville gun free. Make it place where people can make decisions without fear or intimidation. Remember, The future of Bougainville is in your hands,” Mr Watawi said.

socio-economic, political and spiritual order.” He added that this new future means Bougainvilleans would want to be liberated from structural impediments and institutional impediments and become agents of change and development. The distinct sense of Bougainvillean identity has definitely led to a history of rejecting outside imposition, a history of being proud of our heritage and a history of self-determination,” Momis said. Momis said that self-determination is the peoples’ claim that they must be the major stakeholders in deciding their fate and to be engaged in socio-economic, political and spiritual liberation. “It is through unity and believing in one another shall we achieve our ultimate political future,” he remarked.

Mekamui Tribal Government Supports Momis

The Mekamui Tribal Government of Unity stands behind President Momis as we see him as the person who will lead us to freedom.

“The Mekamui faction has also started the realignment process with the Autonomous Bougainville Government that will see reintegration and unity amongst all Bougainvilleans,”

Mekamui Defence Force hard man, Moses Pipiro declared that the people in Panguna area were 100 percent behind President Momis : Picture presenting shell money

The Mekamui Tribal Government of Unity has pledged its support to incumbent ABG President Grand Chief Dr John Momis.

Mekamui Defence Force hard man, Moses Pipiro said that the people in Panguna area were 100 percent behind President Momis’ bid to retain the ABG Presidency in a political rally held in the heart of the Panguna Township recently.

“The Mekamui Tribal Government of Unity stands behind President Momis as we see him as the person who will lead us to freedom,” Mr Pipiro said.

“The Mekamui faction has also started the realignment process with the Autonomous Bougainville Government that will see reintegration and unity amongst all Bougainvilleans,” he added.

“President Momis has been with us from the very start of our struggle for self-determination and he is the only one who knows where we’ll go,” Mr Pipiro said.

Former ABG President James Tanis was also among a host of leaders from North, South and Central Bougainville who endorsed President Momis’s candidacy.

Communities receive funds for projects

By Lynn Gegera

Strongim Pipol Strongim Nesen (SPSN) Program through Australian Aid organized a Grant Signing Occasion for seven Community Based (CBOs) Organizations in Bougainville in May.

The Grant Agreements worth over K 500, 000.00 were signed and presented to the CBOs after a three days training workshop held at Tsiroto to train the recipients on how to manage and acquire the funds properly.

“You are the medium of change for the people and as recipients you should be proud that you were selected out of many applicants throughout Bougainville and work together with your communities to successfully complete the projects using the funds,” the Australian High Commission Representative in Buka Jeffery Kop stressed in his speech at the event.

Mr. Kop said that the SPSN Program will continue to support such projects as these grants were a special program that came down to the community level and congratulated the recipients on behalf of the Australian Government.

“To be a recipient you must be happy because you were selected and it is through your hard work that you are now a recipient,” Thomas Tsiriko the Vice chairman of the Local Grants Committee revealed this while presenting the Grant Agreements to the recipients.

The successful recipients included CBOs from Babogo, Selau, Hakku, Sapos, Ketskets, Halia and the North Bougainville Womens Federation (NBWF). Most of these recipients had applied for funding to look at Water and Sanitation Projects and Capacity Building.

“Water is a very big problem in the North and I am so happy and acknowledge the Australian Government for such funding because it will benefit the people of Bougainville,” Mrs Mary Sahoto, NBWF Representative said. She further urged the communities to work together with the recipients as the projects will benefit the whole community.

Meanwhile, a representative of the recipients Mr. William Getsi thanked the Australian Government for supporting the people of Bougainville. “It is a unique and special program to help the people and the seven CBOs are very fortunate to receive these grants. As recipients we must use the training and knowledge we received in ensuring to finish our projects based on faith, believing in yourself, working within the law and trusting in God,” he challenged.

These recipients are the second batch to receive such funds under the SPSN Program supported by the Australian Government.

Sports quiet in office

The recent outcome of the PNG Games places tremendous pressure on Bougainville's current elite athletes and the Bougainville sports office to improve on programs to sustain internal competitions.

Team ARoB had performed well in the PNG Games finishing off in the top five teams, despite the lack of proper sporting facilities. The Autonomous Bougainville Government (ABG) was urged to continue supporting programs that enable Bougainville sportsmen and women to excel in international and national competitions.

Bougainville's chef de Mission to the PNG games Mr. Anthony Tsora, had said that sports was a tool for fostering peace and implementing the Bougainville Peace Agreement. Tsora said sports has played a significant role and the results speak for themselves. "As a mechanism of unification of all Bougainvilleans, we have successfully sent two delegations to the PNG Games," he said.

In the Autonomy Agreement, there would be a gradual draw-down of powers and functions from the Papua New Guinea Government to ABG. It is notable that while the implementation of the draw-down of powers and functions has been gradually taking place in other sectors of government, it, however, is at a stalemate in Sports.

"If the stagnant state of sports today is a direct result of sheer negligence or merely a matter of communication problem, then the people responsible for coordinating these activities should make known its status," Tsora said.

The sporting fraternity seems to go into deep slumber until the jingling sound of money wakes it up. This has to stop.

The Bougainville Sports Office and Autonomous Bougainville Sports Foundation are the ABG's agencies established to implement this role under the Department of Community Development. This bodies are tasked to direct the government's sports policies and its implementation by working through its own programs in partnership with other sports stakeholders.

These policies should be implemented across Bougainville to develop skills and create opportunities for young talents in the region.

Sports should be fully implemented as a vehicle to address development challenges such as health and HIV, education, gender issues, crime and others, Sports is an avenue where people meet and socialize as and implement the spirit of peace making a healthier and more productive population contributing to the nations economic and social capital.

Like Tsora said, it's about time Bougainville Sports office and the Sports Foundation put something out on the field for athletes to play with.

Let's be proactive, and vigilant or abolish the office and create an effective, and efficient body to oversee sports in Bougainville.

Bougainville has so much raw talent that needs to be tapped into in order to develop sports in region and implement the BPA. These talents cannot be left waiting for funding.
